This FSG is an important document. It provides information to assist you in deciding whether to use any of the financial services IBA offers and provide you with an understanding of what to expect from the relationship between you and IBA.

Specifically, this FSG provides information about:

- Who we are and the financial services we offer;
- Our contact details and how you can give us instructions;
- IBA's capacity when we provide financial services
- How we and other relevant persons are paid for the services we provide;
- Our internal and external dispute resolution process and how you can access them.

You should read this FSG carefully and ensure that you understand it.

The information in this FSG has been prepared without taking into account your individual objectives, financial situation or needs. You should consider the information provided in this FSG having regard to your own particular circumstances. If you have any questions about the financial services we provide or your need more information please contact us, our contact information is set out in section 3 of this FSG.

It is IBA's policy not to provide any advice, including financial product advice. If you require any legal, taxation, financial or other advice we strongly recommend that you seek such advice prior to opening an account with IBA.

2. Other documents you may receive from us

You will receive other documents from us when you apply to open an account and before we provide you with any financial services or make financial products available to you.

For instance, before you can open an account, you must read and accept our General Terms and Conditions ("T&Cs"). It is important that you read and understand the T&Cs because they will govern the legal relationship between you and us.

In addition to this FSG, we may also be required to provide you with other disclosure documents. Where we offer to issue, or arrange for the issue of a financial product, we must provide you with a Product Disclosure Statement ("PDS") about the financial product. Any PDS we give you contains important information about the features, benefits, risks, costs, of the relevant financial product and, is intended to assist you in deciding whether to acquire that financial product. We are not required to give you a PDS if you are acquiring certain financial products such as listed shares and ASX listed warrants.

As a participant of the ASX, ASX 24 and Chi-X markets we are required also to provide you with certain explanatory booklets before you trade certain products such as warrants, ASX exchange traded options, or ASX 24 futures.

The documents we note above are not an exhaustive list and you will receive other important documents from IBA, such as those required by different exchanges on which we arrange for execution of your orders or from entities which provide services to you in conjunction with the financial services we offer.

You should keep a copy of the T&Cs, the FSG and any PDS or any other disclosure document which we provide to you for future reference.

From time to time we may update or change the T&Cs. If we do so, we will provide you notice as set out in the T&Cs and publish the updated document on our website where we keep the most current versions of the T&Cs. When we update this FSG and or any PDS we will publish the latest version to our website.

4.3. IBA's policy on financial advice

It is IBA's policy not to provide financial advice. IBA does not solicit orders or provide recommendations to its clients. IBA will generally only provide factual information to its clients about the market and its products or services.

You may subscribe to third party market analysis or research through IBA's platform, and IBA will pass this information to you through its platform. Where IBA passes on this information, you should treat this information as general advice only and such information will not have been prepared in consideration of your objectives, financial situation or needs. You should ensure that you consider any such information which we pass on in light of your own circumstances. We strongly recommend that you contact a financial adviser if you require personal financial advice.

The discussions or correspondence you have with any representative of IBA will be technical in nature if it concerns the specific features and functionality of IBA's platform. If your discussions or correspondence with IBA specifically relates to a financial product or financial service offered by IBA, then our staff will provide you with factual information about the products or services. IBA staff will not provide recommendations to you or solicit orders from you, and any information provided will not take into account your objectives, financial situation or needs. When you speak with or correspond with IBA, you are dealing with a representative of IBA and we are responsible for the factual correctness of any information given but you are responsible for the decisions you make about your account and any financial products.

4.4. What is IBA's position when you trade with us?

When you instruct IBA to deal or arrange a dealing in a financial product on your behalf, IBA will generally be acting as your agent in executing or arranging that dealing. IBA may transact with you as principal in certain circumstances, where this occurs we will indicate such in any confirmation of the transaction we provide.

When you instruct IBA to deal in an exchange traded derivative, IBA is deemed to be the issuer of such derivative acquired on your behalf, except in the case of ASX listed warrants where another party is the warrant issuer. You should refer to the warrants disclosure documents for further details in such cases.

When you place an order for a spot FX contract (and provided we confirm the execution of that order) IBA will be the counter-party to that FX contract and will issue the contract to you as principal.

Whether IBA is dealing as your agent or with you as principal, your relationship with IBA will be governed by terms set out in the T&Cs.

4.5. How do you give instructions to IBA?

IBA provides brokerage and other services primarily through electronic means and most of your interactions with IBA will be through such means. You will give most instructions in relation to the buying and selling of financial products to IBA through our online trading platforms Trader Workstation ("TWS") or Webtrader. Certain technologically sophisticated clients may submit instructions to us via specific interfaces such as the Computer to Computer Interface ("CCI") or Application Programming Interfaces ("API").

You can view information about your account and submit instructions to us through account management. To access account management, access our website select "Login" and then "Account Management". In Account Management you are able to participate in corporate actions (via the corporate action tool) and are able to log Web Tickets for specific matters (including for giving instruction in relation to corporate actions which are not available via the corporate action tool) or asking questions or making requests.

Please refer to IBA's website which contains further important details about, for instance, the types of order types available to clients and how to give instructions to IBA in relation to the financial products, including important information about timing of such instructions and entitlement to participate in certain corporate actions at www.interactivebrokers.com.au.

Important

Access to the platforms or interfaces provided by IBA is controlled through use of a secure username and password. You are responsible for the confidentiality of your log-in information, including your user name and password. You must keep this information secure and must not give or disclose it to anyone. IBA does not know whether an unauthorised person is entering orders on your account using your user name and password and you will be responsible for any transactions which result.

4.6. How to monitor your portfolio and important information about corporate actions

It is important that you understand that under our T&Cs, you as a customer are responsible for knowing the terms of all securities, derivatives or other financial products in your account with IBA.

You can monitor your portfolio through the various platforms (Trader Work Station, Webtrader etc.) IBA makes available to you.

You may obtain details of executed past trades, profit and loss statements, and historical portfolio information via Account Management. IBA makes the information on your portfolio available in real-time or as close to real-time as possible

Whilst IBA tries to ensure that the information which it provides to you is correct and up to date, we do not warrant or guarantee that this is the case. The accuracy and correctness of information which we pass on to you may be impacted by, amongst other things, delays in processing of information by the underlying market, failure of a market data vendor or the actions of the issuers of shares in your portfolio. Please refer to our T&Cs for further detail about legal responsibilities.

It is also important that you understand IBA's role in acting as your custodian and passing on information about corporate actions. We will provide information on upcoming voluntary corporate actions within Account Management and you should monitor Account Management on a regular basis. You can access the Voluntary Corporate Action Election tool through the Message Center or by navigating to the Corporate Action Manager available through Customer Service Tools.

In the event an open voluntary corporate action is not available through IBA's Voluntary CA Election tool, you can submit instructions to participate in the offer to IBA by creating an Inquiry/Problem ticket via Account Management.

You must ensure you make any election to participate in voluntary corporates actions within the time frames specified in the corporate action notification or in the absence of a specified timeframe 7 days prior to the closing date.

5. Information about execution and clearing arrangements

5.1. Execution arrangements and Best Execution obligations for Australian markets

As set out above, IBA is a market participant of the ASX, ASX 24 and Chi-X Australia markets ("Australian Markets") and executes orders on your behalf on these markets.

IBA's Best Execution Policy summarises how we handle and execute your orders on the ASX and Chi-X Australia markets as required by the ASIC Market Integrity Rules (Competition in Exchange Markets) 2011. A copy of this policy is available on IBA's website at www.interactivebrokers.com.au under "Forms and Disclosures" >> "Disclosures".

5.2. Clearing arrangements for Australian markets

IBA clears all of the derivatives market transactions (that is, transactions in options and futures) entered into your behalf on the ASX and ASX 24 markets.

IBA has arranged for a third party, BNP Paribas Securities Services ARBN 149 440 291, AFSL 402467 ("BNP"), to clear and settle the transactions that IBA executes on your behalf in equity market products on either ASX or Chi-X Australia. You should refer to the FSG issued by BNP and Disclosure Statement provided by BNP for further information about the service it provides. This information is available on IBA's website.

5.3. Execution and clearing arrangements on International markets

For markets outside of Australia, for example London Stock Exchange or New York Stock Exchange, IBA arranges for the execution and clearing of your orders by or through a participant of the relevant financial market who may be one of our affiliates within the IB Group.

6. Client Money

The following section is provided as a general overview of how IBA handles client money, how you deposit with or withdraw funds from IBA. You should ensure you review our T&Cs to understand the terms governing how we hold client and money and when it may be used.

IBA will handle the client money it receives in accordance with the rules set out in Part 7.8 of the Corporations Act 2001 (Cth) (Client Money Rules) and any applicable rules of the markets and clearing houses of which it is a participant and the terms of its agreement with you. Where required, IBA will pay client money into a trust account or client segregated account. Client money received from you (or on your behalf) will be combined and deposited with the client money received from IBA's other clients.

IBA uses client money it holds for you for amongst other things, to pay fees you have agreed to (including paying fees to your nominated adviser or broker) and meet other costs or obligations incurred by IBA on your behalf as a result of your trading, such as settlement costs or margins.

While IBA may pay you interest on credit balances, IBA will retain the interest earned on any client money held in a client money account or with any third party (such as an offshore broker or custodian or clearing house).

Generally, payments to IBA must be made from a bank account by electronic funds transfer (EFT) or BPay. IBA does not accept deposits by cheque or in cash. You should ensure that you follow the instructions on how to deposit funds carefully to ensure that there are no delays in attributing deposits to your account. If you wish to withdraw money held for you, IBA will (subject to the T&Cs and your current freely withdrawable funds) pay such amount to you and not to any third party, unless we have separately agreed. You must provide the correct payment instructions (including account details) and ensure you perform withdrawal requests correctly. Whilst IBA will take reasonable steps to comply with your payment instructions, IBA accepts no responsibility for any failure to comply with those instructions and, if such failure occurs, the relevant monies will continue to be held by IBA.

Important: Clients who trade, or wish to trade financial products on international exchanges may be required to meet the obligations for a transaction in a foreign currency and may be entitled to delivery of foreign currency upon settlement. Where IBA does not support the holding of a particular foreign currency, it will arrange for a spot foreign exchange transaction to be executed on your behalf to meet the obligations of the dealing or convert the proceeds resulting from settlement (if any).

Money may be paid to Clearing houses directly by IBA (such as ASX Clear (Futures)) or to participants or foreign exchanges to meet margin and settlement obligations. Money paid out to and held by participants of International Exchanges or the Clearing House of the relevant International Exchange will not be held IBA according to the Australian Client Money Rules, rather it will be held in accordance with the rules of the relevant jurisdiction. This means that such money will not be subject to Australian laws and rules governing client money. In particular, money held by such third parties may not have the same level of protection afforded to client money in Australia in the case of the insolvency, bankruptcy, or failure of such third party broker or clearing house.

All currency exchange risks from your dealings remain your responsibility. Except where we have entered into a spot FX trade for you at an agreed price, any conversion from one currency to another required to be made for performing or executing any payment instruction, paying for or settling a dealing in any financial product on your behalf may be effected by IBA in the manner and at the time and at the exchange rates that IBA in its absolute discretion, decides.

7. Custody arrangements

IBA acts as your custodian for certain securities or positions in derivatives entered into on your behalf (which we refer to as positions). Where IBA acts as custodian, IBA holds the benefit of such positions (in either securities or derivatives) on your behalf in accordance with the T&Cs. IBA only provides custodial services in conjunction with its primary brokerage business.

IBA may appoint a sub-custodian to hold positions in certain circumstances. Where you place orders to acquire securities through either of the ASX or Chi-X Australia markets, IBA has arranged for a third party sub-custodian, BNP, to hold such securities for IBA. For products transacted on financial markets outside of Australia, IBA will appoint an affiliate within the IB Group as a sub-custodian to hold any securities or resulting positions for IBA (who, as set above, holds the benefit of such positions for you).

In the circumstances where an IB Group affiliate is not a participant of the relevant clearing or depository facility for a particular product, the IB Group affiliate sub-custodians appointed by IBA have themselves appointed sub-custodians to hold products. The name of and contact information for persons who hold products are set out on IBA's website under "Forms and Disclosures" >> "Disclosures".

Your positions in derivatives or securities will generally be held in an omnibus account together with the positions of other clients of IBA and the relevant sub-custodian (as the case may be).

IBA ensures that securities purchased on your behalf are recorded (in the books and records of any sub-custodian directly appointed by IBA) in the name of IBA's wholly owned nominee company, Interactive Brokers Australia Nominees Pty Ltd ("IBA Nominees"). IBA is responsible for the conduct of IBA Nominees.

7.1. External MDA Custodial services

Where IBA acts as an external MDA custodian for an MDA Operator with which you have an agreement, it will be in the circumstances where the MDA Operator has agreed with IBA to provide brokerage services. IBA will enter into a specific agreement with you in such circumstances.

8. Risks of Trading

The risks of loss inherent in trading in financial products will change depending on the financial product traded and you must consider what is appropriate for you in the light of your financial circumstances, objectives and needs.

Trading in exchange traded derivatives such as options, can carry greater risk than non-gearred investments, such as shares, due to the inherent leverage in such products. You could gain or lose considerable amounts of money trading derivatives. Trading with any other form of leverage (margin), may also result in losses surpassing your original investment.

We recommend that you should consider taking independent accounting, financial, taxation or legal advice based in view of your financial circumstances, objectives and prior to making any investment decisions.

9. Margins and IBA's right to close our positions or enter into risk reducing transactions

When we refer to "margins" we are referring to either the margin requirements for maintaining certain open derivative positions, short stock positions or trading using funds advanced from IBA. This type of trading allows clients to utilise leverage to increase their exposure. IBA requires that its clients meet its minimum opening and ongoing margin requirements at all times to maintain leveraged positions.

IBA will not generally issue margin calls, IBA will not credit your account to meet intraday margin deficiencies and IBA may liquidate positions in your account in order to satisfy margin requirements without prior notice to you. You will not be able to pre-liquidate positions or control the timing or order of any liquidation action we take.

IBA calculates its margin requirements and these margin requirements may differ from (and may exceed) exchange margin requirements.

IBA provides you with ongoing information as to the margin requirements and your account status, for instance if an account is approaching margin non-compliance. You must monitor your account to ensure it continually meets margin requirements.

You should refer to our website for further information on trading on margin.

You should also refer to the Product Disclosure Statement for the relevant financial product provided by IBA prior to trading derivatives which provides further information on the margin requirements for such instruments.

You should also closely review the T&Cs which sets out rights and obligations.

10. Privacy

IBA collects personal information from you including but not limited to your name, address, contact details including your email address, tax file number, banking details and information on transactions carried out through IBA by you or any agent you appoint. IBA may use cookies, which also collect information from you.

IBA collects personal information from you as required by the laws to which we are subject (for instance Anti-Money laundering laws and tax laws), in order to provide you financial services (including custody services), verify your identity, and report certain information to different regulatory bodies. IBA does not sell, disclose or rent personal information collected from you unless you consent.

You may choose to withhold certain information but this may mean that IBA is unable to provide you financial services.

IBA is bound by the Privacy Act 1988 and Australian Privacy principles when we collect personal information from you. We take your privacy seriously, please review our Privacy policy which may be viewed at www.interactivebrokers.com.au, under "Forms and Disclosures" >> "Disclosures". We have taken steps to ensure that your personal information is kept both private and secure.

IBA may be required by the law to disclose information about you to external parties including regulatory bodies. In such cases, IBA must fully cooperate with the relevant request.

Clients of IBA may update personal details via Account Management and or by submitting a ticket.

If you have a complaint, you may submit that to IBA as set out in section 14. If you have a question, you can submit a general ticket via Account Management or via the email address listed under section 14.

11. Fees and Charges

11.1. Commission and Fees

IBA charges commission and fees when you buy or sell or enter into or close out most financial products. As at the date of this FSG, IBA does not charge you for any of the custody services it may provide to you.

The amount of commission or fees payable to IBA depends on the pricing structure selected and the product traded. For example, commission may be calculated as a percentage of the trade value with a set minimum charge per order, or as a dollar amount per contract. Due to the breadth of products and exchanges IBA makes available we cannot set out all our fees in this FSG. For the most current commission and fee information for each pricing structure and type of products, please refer to the IBA website at www.interactivebrokers.com.au, see under Pricing >> Commissions.

You may also request particulars of remuneration (including commission) or other benefits within a reasonable time after receiving this FSG and before any financial service is provided.

11.2. Mark ups and intermediary billings

Financial advisers and brokers may charge their clients for services rendered through either automatic billing, electronic invoice or direct billing. If you are a client of a financial adviser or broker, they determine the mark-up on IBA's standard fees and commission and this mark-up may be modified from time to time. You will be provided notice with details of any mark ups on IBA's standard fees and commissions charged by your financial adviser or broker at account application and when they are changed by your financial adviser or broker.

If you are the client of another Australian financial services licensee (for instance, such Licensee may be your financial adviser or broker) and you sign up with IBA under a master account operated by that Licensee, depending on your agreement, that Licensee may appoint IBA as their agent to collect fees from you on their behalf for services rendered by them.

You should ensure that if you have engaged another Licensee as your advisor or broker you understand what their fees and charges are. The fees charged by such Licensees are separate and in addition to any fees which you must pay IBA for the services it provides, although this information may be reported as a consolidated fee on statements and confirmations.

For more information on the available billing methods that other Australian financial services licensees use, including caps and limitations, please refer to IBA's website at www.interactivebrokers.com.au under "Pricing".

11.3. Interest

Interest may be paid to you or charged to you.

Interest may be payable on credit balances (that is, positive balances which you maintain with IBA in excess of specified minimum balances). Factors which affect the amount of interest payable include the currency in which the account is denominated and the amounts held in excess of your margin requirements.

Interest is charged when your account balance is in debit, if for instance you owe money to meet margin requirement on the products you have bought or sold or where IBA has met other obligations on your behalf.

IBA uses internationally recognised benchmarks on overnight deposits as a basis for determining interest rates. We then apply a spread around the benchmark interest rate in tiers, such that larger cash balances receive increasingly better rates, to determine an effective rate.

IBA accrues interest on a daily basis and posts actual interest at the end of each month as set out in the monthly statement. For detailed examples on how we calculate interest, and for further information on how to read interest on your statement, please refer to IBA's website.

The spreads and effective rates on credit balances, debit balances and short sale proceed balances are shown in the tables on the IBA website. We also provide detailed examples on how we calculate interest and information on how to understand interest on your statement on that website.

Details of minimum balances, interest rates and charges is set out on IBA's website www.interactivebrokers.com.au under Pricing >> Interest and Financing.

11.4. Administrative fees and charges

IBA charges certain administrative fees for matters such as order cancellation and modifications, trade busts (cancellations) and adjustments, prime broker take-ups, deposits and withdrawals, exercise and assignments, American Depository Receipts (ADRs) and stop payments. The list of administrative fees and charges is available on the IBA website, www.interactivebrokers.com.au under Pricing >> Other Fees.

11.5. Taxes

Transaction taxes, such as value added taxes may apply in some jurisdictions. The taxation implications of trading in Options will depend on your particular circumstances and it is recommended that you obtain your own independent taxation advice. See section 11 for a more detailed discussion of significant taxation implications.

Certain of IBA's services will be subject to Goods and Services Tax (GST). Where GST was payable on a service (and the relevant commission payable by you), this will be disclosed the statements and reports we make available to you.

11.6. Market Data, Fundamentals, and News

If you require live data, then depending on the product you are trading and where that product is traded, you may then be required to enter into a subscription agreement with the associated exchange. You are not required to enter into a data subscription to open an account with IBA.

You can subscribe to paid, real-time market data on exchanges around the world through Account Management. The subscription fee for market data on each exchange offered through IBA is listed on the IBA website.

In addition, IBA provides free delayed data in certain circumstances. Where delayed market data is available, you may access it and manage it through Trader Workstation ("TWS"), and ticker lines that use delayed data are highlighted in yellow for emphasis. For details on managing delayed market data, see the TWS Users' Guide available at:

- Trader Work Station guide.
- Account Management information.

We also provide real-time fundamentals and news via subscription-activated Reuters Worldwide Fundamentals and Reuters News Feed, along with various free RSS news feeds, all of which are seamlessly integrated into the TWS trading application. The subscription fee for each of these services are listed on the IBA website.

IBA does not require you to subscribe to live market data in order to trade and you are free to receive market data from another IBA account or data vendor, or to use only delayed market data.

Many exchanges classify clients as non-professional or professional. Exchange rules require that trusts and organisations (e.g. corporations, partnerships, LLCs and unincorporated businesses) must be classified as professional. NYSE and Amex Professional Market Data require prior approval from the exchange for this information.

Further details in relation to the above are set out on IBA's website www.interactivebrokers.com.au.

11.7. Clearing House Fees

Clearing houses (such as ASX Clear and ASX Clear (Futures)) usually charge a transaction fee per contract (opening or closing trades) and exercise and assignment fees. Fees for opening or closing a position are typically included in your commission payable to IB. Exercise and assignment fees are not typically included in commissions and may be separately payable by you. Where such fees are payable, they will be disclosed in your transaction confirmation. These clearing house fees may be tax deductible and you should consult with your tax adviser or accountant.

You should refer to IBA's website for details.

11.8. Product-specific fees and charges

There may be fees and charges payable by you in respect of a specific financial product which we issued to you. Our PDS in respect of that financial product will contain information on any fees and charges relating to that financial product.

11.9. Monthly activity minimums

IBA caters to active professional traders and investors and as such accounts are required to meet minimum levels of activity. Those accounts that do not meet the minimum levels are assessed a monthly activity fee. Whether this fee is assessed is determined by reference to commissions only, that is, for instance market data fees and administrative fees are not included in determining if an account has met the minimum activity.

Required balance, activity and commission minimums for retail and introducing broker accounts and for clients using a dedicated line FIX connection are as set out on the IBA website at www.interactivebrokers.com.au.

11.10. Required Minimums

There are minimums required to open an account with IBA. These are set out on our www.interactivebrokers.com.au under Pricing >> Required Minimums.

12. How are IBA's employees remunerated?

As explained above, IBA is part of the IB Group of companies. The directors and employees of IBA are paid a salary and bonus dependant on their individual performance and the performance of the IB Group as a whole. No IBA employee or representative earns a commission for the trading undertaken by IBA clients. All commissions are earned by IBA.

13. Potential Conflicts of Interest, Associations and Relationships

IBA does not, nor do any affiliates within the IB Group, have any relationships or associations with any product issuer that could reasonably be expected to be capable of influencing us in the provision of financial services.

Unless otherwise disclosed, IBA generally acts on its own behalf when providing financial services to you.

Depending on what products you acquire from or through IBA, we may act as your agent (for instance, when we acquire or arrange for the acquisition of exchange traded financial products on your behalf) or as principal ourselves (for instance, when we issue OTC Spot FX contracts to you). IBA does not generally undertake any principal trading in financial products which it acquires as your agent, except where it must correct error positions. IBA hedges all spot FX positions by entering into a back-to-back hedge transaction with its hedge counterparty at the same price at which IBA enters into the spot FX contract with you. IBA's hedge counter-party is an affiliate of IBA and receives a portion of the commission charged by IBA to you.

IBA executes trades on the markets of which it is member on behalf of its clients and on behalf of offshore affiliates brokerage entities within the IB Group (typically these will be trades originated from the clients of the relevant offshore affiliate). IBA handles all orders it receives in accordance with the allocation policy set out in its T&Cs.

14. If you have a complaint

14.1. IBA's internal complaints resolutions process
